News by Cable Today From All Over the world

WASHINGTON—The murder of three American relief workers in Syria was reported today to the State Department.

BERLIN—Von Lersner, head of the German mission at Paris, has been relieved of that office. He had explicit orders to transmit the expected allied note on the extradition of the kaiser to his government. He declined to do so.

NEW YORK—One hundred and forty-seven soldiers arrested on suspicion in connection with what is believed to have been an attempt to rob the government of supplies valued at $220,000.

NEW YORK—The greatest single drop in demand that sterling has taken since the present decline in foreign exchanges began, was made today when British pound opened $4.27 1/2 off from yesterday to $3.20 at noon.

WASHINGTON—The enumeration of the nation's industries, manufacturing plants, quarries, oil and gas wells, forests and forestry products will start March 1.

WASHINGTON—Soviet Russia today asked for opening trade with the United States. Overtures were made by Martens, the Soviet representative, before the Senate Foreign relations sub-committee.

NEW YORK—Sixteen per cent was set as the maximum profit for woolen merchants today by Arthur Williams, federal food administrator. It was shown by a complainant that Binder & Hyman in one day sold 1272 yards of woollens at a profit of $1.85 per yard, or a total of $2,353.20 on the 1272 yards.

WASHINGTON—The Senate has confirmed the appointment of David F. Houston as Secretary of the Treasury and Edwin T. Meredith as Secretary of Agriculture.

VIENNA—Dispatches from Bucharest state that the Bolsheviks are waiting at the frontier to offer peace terms to Rumania. If the terms are refused, the advances sav, troops will advance.

TACOMA—After being out 58 hours the jury in the case of the 36 I. W. W. charged with criminal syndicalism returned a verdict of guilty last night. In the recommendation which was returned with the verdict it was asked that the court exercise as much clemency as possible as it was the organization rather than the individuals who had been on trial. The defendants were arrested here following the Armistice Day massacre at Centralia. As the defendants were being marched back to jail they all joined in singing radical songs.

WASHINGTON—Gov. Thomas Riggs, Jr., announced that he would ask Congress to provide for a constabulary in Alaska to curb the activities of radicals who threaten to demoralize industry.

LONDON—"The surrender of these men is virtually impossible" said Minister of Defense Noske in an interview with the Daily Mail's Berlin correspondent discussing the demands for extradition by the Allies of Germans charged with war crimes. "This demand is an act of revenge," he

City of Seattle Due Tomorrow

SEATTLE—The steamer City of Seattle sailed for Southeastern Alaska at 10 o'clock Tuesday morning with the following passengers booked for Wrangell: B. Y. Grant, O. Gunderson, Jorgen Ronning, A. Jakobitz, Henry Ottesen, George W. Cassel, H. E. Hibbs, B. J. Rosini, Victory Johnson and wife, Henry Lutz.

Craig People Again Show Their Wholeheartedness

The publisher of the Sentinel received a business letter from Craig a few days ago which closed with the following interesting paragraph:

"The business part of town narrowly escaped being destroyed when Joe Vallencollo's house burned recently. All the people of the town turned out, and by their united efforts kept the flames from spreading. The Vallencollo's lost everything, even their money and clothing. U. S. Deputy Marshal John K. Smith started a subscription and collected $542. The people bought them a new house, furnished it, and had them in it in two days after the fire. Everyone in Craig and Klawock and some at Bayview helped. No one who was approached refused to contribute."

The Redmen's social Tuesday night was an enjoyable affair as usual. The early part of the evening was spent in card playing. Prizes were awarded as follows: Ladies' prize, to Mrs. Charles M. Binkley; gentlemen's prize, Ole Johnson. The chief amusement of the evening was dancing which was thoroughly enjoyed by all present. During the evening a delightful lunch was served. The committee having charge of the affair was composed of W. W. McLaughlin, Charles M. Binkley, Oscar Carlson.

A trio of female clam diggers were seen toiling on the beach near the cemetery one day recently when the tide was out. We mention this merely to show that it was utility rather than style that prompted Misses Armstrong, O'Connor and Ruth Sylvester to invest in rubber boots.

The following parties from the West Coast were registered at the Wrangell hotel this week: Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Schiltz, Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Harrison, William C. Rawson, A. L. Brown.

C. E. Weber has been kept busy during the cold weather in keeping the walk down from his house in good condition for skiing parties.

The Princess Pat will not leave for the West Coast until after the arrival of the City of Seattle tomorrow morning.

continued. "Suppose I succeeded in getting the men arrested, do you think the train taking them to France would be allowed to cross the frontier. And if a crowd held up a train, do you imagine I could order Germans shot down so that other Germans should be handed over in order that their enemies might have revenge."

WASHINGTON—Gov. Thomas Riggs, Jr., announced that he would ask Congress to provide for a constabulary in Alaska to curb the activities of radicals who threaten to demoralize industry.

GENEVA—One of the Egyptian Nationalists leaders here, Dr. Abdul, said he addressed a telegram to Clemenceau requesting him not to enter Egypt or else leave the country as soon as possible; otherwise, the telegram says, his life would be in danger.

Civic Improvement Club Elects Officers

The Civic Improvement club held the first monthly meeting of the year last Friday with Mrs. J. G. Grant. The officers for the year are: Mrs. Barnes, president; Mrs. Carlson, vice-president; Mrs. Johnson, secretary; Mrs. Bjorge, treasurer.

In September, 1916, the club made plans to preserve the old totem poles of Wrangell but before any action could be taken it was learned that a committee from the local Chamber of Commerce was engaged in a similar enterprise. A dance was given by the ladies, however, in October of the same year and the sum realized, $111.65, was placed in the bank subject to the call of the Chamber of Commerce committee. For various reasons little was done and the money has never been used. The club has conferred with the totem committee recently and proposes to do whatever it can to prevent the loss of these quaint relics of former years. The Kadashan totems will be considered first, owing to their age and the fact that it is only a question of time until they must be removed from their present location.

The next meeting of the club will be held the last Friday in February, with Mrs. Johnson.

Notes of Salmon Canning Industry

Wm. F. Reichwein, secretary-treasurer of the Hood Bay Packing company, Hood Bay, Alaska, is preparing to build a number of new cabins for his Indian help this year. Although a considerable portion of last season was spent in construction work the company reports a very satisfactory pack and with the exception of a labeling machine, which arrived too late for installation last season, no new equipment will be put in this year. Practically the entire crew which was employed last year will be sent up again for the 1920 season.

The Swift-Arthur-Crosby company, which operates a salmon cannery on Heceta Island, Alaska will install a fresh water system in its cannery to replace the salt water line which has been in use since the cannery was first built. The new system is powered with a Fairbanks-Morse 4-inch suction, 3-inch disc pump giving a pressure of about 60 pounds to all departments of the cannery.

Chinese labor which was used last season for the first time will again be employed this year. Previous to last year the company depended entirely upon local help to operate its cannery.

The Booth Fisheries company have announced that Captain H. DeGuelde will be superintendent at Santa Ana and Kasaan the coming season. The cannery at Shakan which was closed last year will be operated this year with Oscar Larsen in charge. P. H. McCue will remain as general superintendent at Seattle.

J. T. Freeman, formerly employed as office manager at the Petersburg Packing Corporation's cannery at Washington Bay, Alaska, has been given the position of superintendent for the coming season. Mr. Freeman succeeds W. N. Williams who was employed as superintendent last year. The company is preparing to operate on about the same scale as last season.

Americans Meet Monday Night

The American organization will meet in the Redmen's lodge room next Monday evening at 8 o'clock. The program is not yet complete, but the greater part of it will be taken by young people of the Wrangell public school. Following are some of the numbers on the program:

Song—Boy Scout March—Grammar and high school boys
Oration—The American Flag—Neil Grant

Vocal Solo—Miss Lillian Kelley
Oration—The Republic's Duty—James Schelp
Trio—Little Orphant Annie—Beryl Cunningham, Gertrude Goodrich, Jean Grant.

An opportunity will be given for any one present to propose anything for the furtherance of Americanism and a betterment of conditions.

The Wrangell Democratic club on Tuesday night elected C. M. Coulter and G. W. Upshaw delegates to the Democratic convention to be held in Juneau on February 16.

John Berg is back at his post as local agent for the Ripley Fish company. Mr. and Mrs. Berg and baby returned last week from Ellensburg where their little son was born.

Dr. J. L. Bulkley of Kodiak recently made a voyage to Seward for a physical examination in order to ascertain if an operation was necessary. The physicians making the examination decided that an operation would not be necessary.

W. W. Corbet of the Hills-Corbet company of Seattle arrived from Hyaburg on the mail boat last week. He left Saturday for Petersburg from which port he took passage to Seattle.

Lend a Hand Club Gives a Pleasing Entertainment Gymnasium

The Lend a Hand club of the Public school under the direction of the school principal, Miss Crono, gave a tea last Saturday afternoon at St. Philip's Gymnasium, which was well attended by patrons and friends of the school. Tea was served from three to five. An especially good musical program was given. Wrangell is to be congratulated upon having so much musical ability in her midst. Some of the numbers given were piano solos by Margaret Northrup, Marjorie Johnson, Margaret McCormack and Erma Grant; vocal solos by Mrs. W. W. McLaughlin, Miss Kelly, Miss Florence Billion, Miss Margery Shaffner and Mrs. M. O. Johnson who was accompanied by her little daughter Dorothy. Miss Liberty Worden and Miss Ruth Lindman with their piano duets and Ruth Holterman and Helen Fletcher with their mandolin and piano duets added much to the afternoon's pleasure.

While every part of the program was enjoyed to the utmost, possibly nothing was a greater hit than the song, Little Orphant Annie, as sung by Beryl Cunningham, Gertrude Goodrich and Jean Grant. There was a strong suspicion among the audience that the success of this number was due to the primary teacher, Miss Ann O'Connor.

The afternoon was a success financially, almost $50 being cleared from the proceeds of the tea and candy booth. This amount will be used for the benefit of the domestic science department of the school.

Parent Teachers' Association Will Meet Next Thursday Night at School House

The following program will be rendered by the Parent-Teachers' Association at their meeting of February 12 at the schoolhouse, commencing at 8 o'clock p. m.

After the opening routine of business:

Community singing by the audience, followed by an address upon the benefits and objects of a Parent-Teachers' association by Gordon C. Mitchell.

Duet by Mrs. McLaughlin and Miss O'Connor.

Address by Mrs. George Barnes on Parent-Teachers' Association of California, followed by a general discussion. Singing by the audience.

All school patrons are cordially invited to attend.

Wrangell's Mild Weather Report

The official records of Ed. F. Grigwire, U. S. weather observer would be interesting reading in some sections of the United States. Following is a summary of the January weather:

The Bureau of Fisheries are contemplating the erection of a wharf and warehouse at Shustak point opposite the sawmill.

Ladies Will Give A Leap Year Dance

A large number of ladies met at the Wrangell hotel Monday evening to plan a leap year dance. While it will be a Valentine dance it was decided to give it on Friday evening, the 13th, instead of Saturday.

No tickets will be sold. The admission price at the door will be one dollar to ladies and this will pay for both dancing and supper. Gentlemen may leave their pocketbooks at home, but it may be well to come prepared with a few dimes, as the floor committee threatens to duplicate the plan tried four years ago at a similar affair, when any man crossing the floor without a lady escort was fined 10 cents. Ladies are urged to attend and to help make the affair a success, and the men are given a cordial invitation to be present.

The following committees were appointed: Music, Miss Coulter, Miss Billion and Miss Grigwire; hall, Mrs. Cunningham; decorating, Mrs. Shurick; supper, Mrs. Skelton; floor, Mrs. Case. Mrs. Shurick, Mrs. Skelton and Mrs. Case will appoint their own assistants.

Any money remaining after all expenses have been paid will be turned over to some local organization.

Firemen to Commemorate Washington's Birthday

By common consent the celebration of certain important days in Wrangell is left to certain important organizations. For instance, the New Year's dance is always given by the Redmen, while Washington's birthday is the date on which the Wrangell Fire department gives its annual dance. On Monday night there was a meeting of the Fire department at which it was decided that on account of the birthday of the Father of His Country coming on Sunday this year the big annual dance would be held on Saturday night, February 21.

SCHOOL NOTES

Commissioner of Education L. D. Henderson has requested that a monthly report of the savings of the school children be given. The last month's savings amounted to $113.30. The luncheon and candy sale given at the Gymnasium by the girls' club was a success. The net receipts were $43.70. The girls wish to express their thanks to all those who helped. Marjory Shaffner had charge of the candy booth which sold out in a short time. Ruth Lindman showed some of her talent through the directing of the musical program. Liberty Worden attended to the "eats."

The pupils of the primary and intermediate grades will produce the operetta, "The Cruise of the Trundle Bed" at the Redmen's hall Friday evening, February 6th. The cast includes 70 enthusiastic workers and the operetta promises to be well rendered. The admission will be 50c and 30c. George Gunderson.

A. L. Brown, a prominent West Coast merchant, is in Wrangell this week on a business trip. Mr. Brown says the people of the West Coast are looking forward to the fishing season of 1920 being even more successful than that of the past year. He says Craig is growing rapidly and that in order to keep in the band wagon he will soon begin the building of an addition to his store.

"ASK MAMMA."

By C. E. LEWIS.

(Copyright, 1917, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

Then he turned from looking at his "Sadie" in the chorus on the stage, and looked at the girl in the box with him.

He was Clarence Devoe, a young man with a rich father. He had been invited to a box party and Dorothy Davenport was one of the party. Clarence had cut a dash, as some rich men's sons do. He had smashed up three or four autos, run in debt wherever possible, had been almost expelled from college and was proud of his career.

Clarence had simply known that there was a Dorothy Davenport, and he had scarcely spoken ten words to her on the way to the theater. All of a sudden, as stated at the opening, he turned and looked at her. She was a young girl, eighteen years old. She was bashful. She happened to look at Clarence as he looked at her. Was that a gleam of love that shot forth from the eyes of each one? It might have been, for that is one of the ways of Cupid.

Clarence mused to himself: "Say, there is some style there while you are talking. There are good looks there and gobs of money behind her. I don't know her mother, but I guess she will be willing. Her governor don't count, of course. He's too busy making more money. I'll make myself a little more agreeable."

That very morning, after paying up his debts, among which was $250 for bouquets for the green room, Clarence Devoe's father had said to him:

"Boy, you have got to quit this mad career! You are now a man in age, and I'll soon repudiate your debts. Why in the Old Harry don't you find a nice girl and marry and settle down? There's lots of 'em in this big town. Marry one of them and I'll take you into partnership."

The words had made little impression on Clarence at the time, but now that he came to cast his looks on Dorothy Davenport, he recalled them. Why not win her? Of course "Sadie" would lament and weep and almost break her little heart, but such things had to be. Clarence called at the Davenport mansion. He was received very gracefully by the girl's mother. He paid little more than a formal call. Dorothy was brought into the room, and he had a few words with her in the presence of her mother. It was her first courtship, and she was a little abashed. When a remark was addressed to her she turned to her mother to secure the privilege of answering it. This was a charming bashfulness of hers. She spoke of him as "Mr. Devoe." Other girls had been in the habit of calling him "Devoe" or "Bob" or "Old Man."

Clarence called again and again. It seemed to please Mrs. Davenport, and it seemed to please his father. Whether Miss Dorothy was pleased or not, the young man could not be certain. He would have given the thing up but for the novelty of it. He could boast to her and she never replied with a word of doubt or censure. Other girls had boldly told him to "cut that out," but such aggressive expressions never passed Dorothy's lips. After several months she got as far as to say that it must be awfully nice to have a house out in the country in summer and one in town in the winter, but she lingered right there for some time. If anybody had asked her if she loved she would have answered:

"I don't know whether I do or not, but I will ask mamma and then tell you."

Clarence mended his ways somewhat. He smashed just as many autos, and he spent just as much of his father's money, but he didn't go to the theater quite so much, and, when he did go, it was to escort Dorothy and her mother, and sometimes two or three other ladies besides. Yes, Clarence was becoming quite a model young man. His mother was a little afraid that he was becoming almost too good, and his father had some faint hope that he would yet become a Sunday school teacher.

It was one evening when Clarence and Dorothy were left alone in the parlor together. There was no clearing of the throat to get his voice in trim; there was no attempt at pathos or tenderness. Just as carelessly as if he were making a bet that he could speed his auto at seventy miles per hour, the young man said:

"Dorothy, I love you."

"Yes," she replied, as if she had been expecting the declaration at any time for the past year.

"I will love, cherish and protect you," continued Clarence.

"And that will be so nice of you?"

"Can't you set the day within a couple of months, Dorothy, dear?"

"I—I think so, Clarence; but I will ask mamma and tell you the next time you come."

"You love me, don't you, Dorothy?"

"Oh, yes," was the calm reply.

"Mamma says I am old enough to be in love."

That was all, except that Clarence went out and sent four American beauty rose bouquets to the theater. They were meant as fond adieux to four different "Sadies," and as a gentle hint that he would not be seen in the green room again.

SILVER FOXES PAMPERED PETS

REGINA, Sask.—Silver foxes on a ranch near here are epicures and live on the fat of the land. This need not be wondered at, for silver foxes literally are worth their weight in gold.

The little aristocrats are fed as expensively as guests in the best hotels.

The meat served them is kept in a perfectly regulated and spotless refrigerator. It consists of the choicest cuts of tenderloin steaks and pork chops with a little horse meat added by way of variety. The foxes have shredded wheat prepared as carefully as it might be for some wealthy and querulous invalid. Other breakfast foods, cereals and vegetables pamper the appetites of the little beasts.

The ranch is tightly fenced in with wire eight feet high and sunk in the ground several feet. The fox houses are constructed on scientific, hygienic plans.

A number of silver fox farms are operated in the United States.

The United States government recently issued a pamphlet advising amateurs to try their hand first with red foxes. Silver foxes at from $2,000 to $15,000 a breeding pair, it was pointed out, are too valuable to experiment with.

One rancher started two years ago with two pairs. He now has 56 animals. He has sold $16,000 worth of pelts. A silver pelt brings from $200 to $2500. His breeding stock is worth close to $100,000.

Judging from the orders being placed for piling, more fish traps than ever before will go in in 1920 in Southeastern Alaska.

A meeting of the Catholic men of Cordova was held last week at the office of T. J. Donohoe for the purpose of establishing a council of the Knights of Columbus in Cordova. About 25 pledged themselves to join the organization.

The Country Church Is the Na- tion's Bulwark. Go to Church.

LARGE percentage of the big men of this big country come from small country towns. Most of the REAL BIG MEN never forget their boyhood days when they went to the SMALL COUNTRY CHURCH. The simple lessons that were taught there have GUIDED THEM THROUGH LIFE. Their lives have been clean. Clean living made for their success.

When the GO TO CHURCH campaign was launched these men took a commendable interest in it. By attending church they set a SPLENDID EXAMPLE to the careless and indifferent. When a real big man GOES TO CHURCH the act is MORE POWERFUL THAN A DOZEN SERMONS. Clear thinking people are quick to see that there is something REALLY WORTH WHILE AND SUBLIME in the church.

THE COUNTRY CHURCH LAID THE FOUNDATION FOR THE LATER SUCCESS IN LIFE. READ THE LIVES OF THE GREAT MEN OF THE COUNTRY. THEY TAKE PRIDE IN RECALLING THEIR EARLY RELIGIOUS TRAINING—THE FINE IDEAS THAT WERE INCULCATED WHEN THEY WERE YOUNG. SURELY THEY PUT TO SHAME SOME OF THE SCOFFERS AT RELIGION AMONG THE FLIPPANT YOUTHS OF THIS MATERIAL AGE. YOU CAN COUNT ON YOUR FINGERS THE NUMBER OF SUCCESSFUL MEN WHO DO NOT GO TO CHURCH.

The plea of some who have fallen away from the church is that they are TOO BUSY to attend church. Yet men whose time is WORTH $100 OR MORE AN HOUR do not begrudge an hour or more for God on the Sabbath.

No man is too busy to attend church. If he is successful he should GO TO CHURCH to thank God for his success. If he is struggling he should ask God's help.

GO TO CHURCH NEXT SUNDAY.

Of Interest to Trappers

G. H. Tozier left Tuesday on a two weeks' trip to the numerous trapping grounds of the "West Coast" in quest of skins. Mr. Tozier has been very successful in picking up fur so far this season.

Carl Shumacher and Frank Cheney left Tuesday morning on a three months' trapping expedition up the Stikine river. Knig Johansen took them on the Karen as far as the Garnet Ledge from which point they will push to the vicinity of the boundary. It is safe to state that when these two veteran trappers return to Wrangell about May 1 they will bring with them a choice collection of skins that will run well into the thousands in value.

A. L. Brown of Craig is in Wrangell this week. Mr. Brown brought in over $2,000 worth of furs which he sold in Wrangell the day of his arrival. Mr. Brown recently made a shipment of furs to the States which also amounted to over $2,000. He expects to make a trip to the States the latter part of the month and will take several thousand dollars' worth of furs with him.

Three men will leave Wrangell this week on fur trading expeditions.

Liljgren and Wagner, the Naked island fox farmers, recently sold 10 pairs of blue foxes for $6,000.

C. L. Hoyt, an experienced fox farmer, has secured a lease on Glacier island, 30 miles from Valdez, and has placed seven pairs of blue foxes on it.

There are many moose and wolves in the Donjek country according to Albert Fortier who runs a trading post near the Coffee creek trail crossing. He says Indians told him of seeing 100 wolves in one pack. The wolves stay close to and feed on the moose. Fortier urges Yukon Territory to pay a bounty on wolves the same as Alaska does.

Joe Kelly, an old-time merchant fur dealer of Ketchikan, is making the rounds of the interior district picking up such furs as he may come across in his journey. He will go from Nenana to Dunbar, thence to Tanana and Yukon river points, and will then come to the coast by way of Circle and Fairbanks.

Fur Items from Kodiak

The fur industry has grown to such magnitude in this section, and so much of it is being shipped out parcel post through the post office here, that the office needs more room, and more help engaged to handle it properly.

Karl Armstrong returned from a fur killing trip in his motor boat the 23d, and reported 41 fox skins and all nice ones.

Edwin Wentworth, Superintendent of the Government Fish Hatchery on Afognak island, returned after spending several days in town. While here, Mr. Wentworth, to pass the time away took a rifle and a walk out north of town, and after spending about three hours returned with a fine silver grey fox. The Natives say it was a sick one. However that may be, Mr. Wentworth has a fox skin worth three hundred dollars.

Mr. O. L. Grimes, the merchant at Ouzinkie, was in town a few days ago and shipped out a large box of eagle claws to Juneau. A bounty of 50 cents a pair will be realized. Mr. O. L. Grimes bought them from the Natives, thereby encouraging the killing of eagles, and saving the foxes. It is due to this that the number of foxes have increased so fast, thus enabling the Natives to gain a better and surer living. Any one can kill an eagle but it takes a trapper to catch a fox.

FAMOUS McDAMES CREEK IN CASSIAR TO BE DEVELOPED

Fulfilling the dreams of the Laird section miners, of the famous Cassiar district, Captain Pendelton believes he has successfully financed his project to take the gold from the gravels and bedrock sands of McDames creek. For years the Laird section miners attempted to extract gold from McDames creek by hand method only to be driven out by water. Eventually Captain Pendelton acquired a Crown grant to the creek diggings and came to the States to organize a company to put modern equipment on the creek to extract the gold. He organized the Pendelton Mining company, capitalized at five hundred thousand shares.

Captain Pendelton talked interestingly to the Dispatch regarding McDames creek. He was originally a hand and dredge miner on Seward peninsula, where he was a factor in taking a fortune from Bering sea sands in the 90's. Attracted by tales of Cassiar district riches he rushed across Alaska via Telegraph creek and landed at McDames creek. Here he saw claims gradually abandoned by reason of lack of capital and intelligent mining operations. Since 1906 he has worked to acquire a sufficient group of claims, and undaunted, came to the States to secure capital. He failed in his quest for private funds, presented and was refused assistance from capitalists and eventually organized the Pendelton Mining company to place a dredge on the property. —Dispatch.

The proposal that the Dominion government take over the salmon and other fisheries of the Pacific Coast to protect the fish, eliminate unnecessary competition and waste, and to reduce the cost of fish to the public is made by Hon. William Sloan, Commissioner of Fisheries for British Columbia, in a lengthy memorandum submitted to Hon. C. C. Bantyne, minister of Marine and Fisheries of Canada at Ottawa.

He adds the request that, if the Dominion government is not prepared to accept the policy he advocates of taking over and operating the fisheries on this coast, the Dominion should surrender that right to the province of British Columbia—Pacific Fisherman

"The Cruise of the Trundle Bed"

At Redmen's Hall
 Friday Night, 8 o'clock

The pupils of the primary and intermediate grades will produce the operetta, "The Cruise of the Trundle Bed" at the Redmen's hall tomorrow night, Friday, February 6. The story of the operetta is as follows:

Two little boys while away the time in bed, before they grow sleepy, by playing "Sailing out to sea." Just as they have everything fixed to start on "The Cruise of the Trundlebed," they fall fast asleep, so a good fairy comes on the scene and takes them on a journey around the world. In their dreams, they visit a number of foreign countries, but they manage to get back just as the clock strikes four, at which hour the fairy finds she must disappear, as she is not allowed on earth after daylight. Just as she is making her escape, the youngsters wake up and try to catch her, but she gets away.

THE LONGING HEART

By ROSS WAVERLY.

(Copyright, 1917, Western Newspaper Union.)
 The scene was a lawyer's office, the occupants of its consultation room, a man and a woman. He wore expensive, but neat attire. She was past the bloom of girlhood, but beauty and grace had not left her. Her attire was that of half mourning.

She had arisen and confronted the man who had just spoken words that affronted all the womanliness of her nature.

"You dare to make me this proposition!" she said with dignity and passion. "You, John Gaines, the gambler!"

"You know who I am, then?" he began, and, strong, great man that he was, he winced.

"Who does not who reads the public prints?" she challenged scornfully. "It is my personality, then, that makes the proposition obnoxious to you?" he interrogated, with a certain degree of dignity. "I do not forget that you are a lady. They call me 'Honest John Gaines,' gambler though I am. Mr. Leith, the attorney, is a person you trust. Believe me, he could not have consented to this interview did he not know that there is honor in my makeup."

She recalled her necessities, the struggle she was making to earn a living, to liquidate the debts left as her only heritage by an indifferent husband, dead but a year, and a certain harsh sternness, as of a man in turn resisting a galling contempt, held her silent. He went on: "I asked Mr. Leith to select a lady who would be treated as such, a true woman who could see in my peculiar situation something to pity. You are offered a thousand dollars to do the part of a play actress for a bare twelve hours. It is painful for me to act mine, but I wish to save breaking the heart of the only being I have ever loved—my mother."

"Your mother!" she murmured softly. Then sadly: "I lost mine, my best friend on earth only last month." And then apologetically, almost submissively: "I—I do not understand you."

"I hoped Mr. Leith had told you," he spoke. "I am John Gaines, gambler, to the city, but I am John Willard, a beloved son, a mother's idol and a rich, influential and reputable business man to my old mother. I have kept my father and mother in comfort, a thousand miles away. For the first time in their lives that doting innocent old couple, on their way home from the funeral of a relative, will stop over for one day in the city here to see 'their boy.' I have prepared for them. They will be welcomed to the home I have rented for the day, where well-bribed servants will assist in carrying out the fraud. They will go away proud and content."

"I understand and I pity you," spoke Norma Winston, and her eyes were moist. "For one day I am to act out the mistress of your regal home, I am to wear the mask of the wife. For your mother's sake I consent."

"Thank you," said Gaines simply, almost coldly. "Mr. Leith will arrange the details with you," and was gone. It was a strange experience for Norma Winston, and its details grew more complex and interesting as the farce continued. She was given money by the lawyer, Mr. Leith, to procure attire in keeping with that appropriate for the wife of a wealthy man. Through the attorney Gaines sent her some diamonds to wear. At nine o'clock on the day set an automobile conveyed her to the elegant residence.

One hour later the expected guests were introduced to the house by their devoted son. After an introduction, the mother reached out and drew Norma to a warm embrace.

"Oh, you dear, sweet creature! So beautiful, and well may John, good man that he is, be proud of you!"

Then followed hours replete with charm and royal entertainment for the old homespun couple.

It was just an hour before the pair were to resume their journey, and Gaines, satisfied and relieved, for the deception had materialized smoothly, was passing the door ajar of the library when he chanced to glance within the apartment.

At the feet of his mother Norma was seated on a stool, her head resting on the breast of the dear old lady, who was planning out a haven of bliss, where John and his wife were to come and pass a month or two at the old homestead.

Norma was in tears when the parting came. After they had seen the old couple safely started on their journey, Gaines ordered his chauffeur to drive Mrs. Winston to her home. He handed her an envelope as they reached it. It contained the fee promised by the lawyer.

"You have done me a service I never can forget," he said. "May I see you once in a while?"

"When you come with clean hands—yes," she said.

He came a month later. "I have sold all I owned, without restriction," he told her. "I have abandoned my old calling; I have given all I had to charity. Could the rich young man of olden times do more?"

She tendered him her hand. "Mother has written me, and I had to come to you," went on Gaines steadily, but his soul was in his face. "She is longing for you. She wants to see her boy and Norma, dear Norma."

"Oh," she cried longingly, "take me to mother!"

Percy DeWolfe recently arrived in Dawson from Eagle with the mail on schedule time despite the fact that he encountered 64 below weather on the trail.

It is said that Dawson people who went outside to raise capital to finance silver properties in the Mayo district, are returning to the Klondike with the very best of news.

Reminded Her of Salmon

American Traveler in Europe Confesses She Would Have Welcomed Dish Once Despised.

Elizabeth Fraser, a traveler and writer, was talking at a diplomatic reception in Paris about her recent experiences in Vienna.

"It is difficult," said Miss Fraser, "to satisfy one's hunger there, even at hotels that cost $15 a day."

"Eating my unappetizing dish of hashed turnips, which frequently composed the principal dish of the menu, I thought regretfully of the salmon I once disdained on a Canadian trip."

Miss Fraser laughed. "I was traveling in the back country of Canada, where salmon—boiled, broiled, in salad, creamed, as cutlets—figured at every meal and became very monotonous."

"Is there nothing else for breakfast?" I asked the hotelkeeper one morning as a whole fish and pot of mustard was put before me.

"Nothing else?" the man exclaimed. "Why, there's salmon enough there for six, ain't there?"

"Yes," I admitted, "but I do not want salmon."

"Well, then," my host replied curtly, "fire into the mustard."

Retrieving Barbed Wire.

The problem of retrieving the buried and broken barbed wire on the battlefields of Flanders and northern France is being tackled by the British war office salvage committee, and a machine for the purpose has been invented and built which is thus described:

One truck and trailer carries the whole of the plant, which can work on the most uneven ground. A stout wire rope with a number of hooks is worked by a winch. As the barbed wire is drawn up it passes through two sets of rollers, and the salvaged metal appears in blocks from one foot to 18 inches square, and weighing from 70 to 80 pounds. For smelting it sells for about $25 a ton. The staff in charge of the scheme thinks that there are 100,000 tons that can be removed, and if that is the aggregate weight the cost of the 40 outfits said to have been ordered should be amply justified.

Ye Old-Time Telephone Girl.

"Time was before the experts came along, and, in vulgar business parlance, 'sold efficiency' to the telephone companies, when the telephone was a real convenience," John Ambruster relates in Everybody's. "The historic instance of a lady who rang up central and said: 'I am just stepping over to Mrs. Brewsters' for a few minutes to get her doughnut recipe—she's Main 227—and I'll leave the receiver off so you can hear if the baby cries and let me know.' In my home town we used to ask central where the fire was and who was dead and did she think there was any mail for us."

Nine Months on Warship.

A naval man, home on leave, was discussing Lord Jellicoe's tribute to all ranks who fought at Jutland, and he revealed what seems to the lower deck the highest form of heroism.

It was not the fighting, not the anxious watching day and night—that is what a naval man is there for, he showed.

"I've been 10 years in the navy, but if you'd ever told me before the war that I should ever have lived for nine months on board ship without a break, I should have dropped down dead," he said. "But I've just done it," he added.—London Chronicle.

Merely Breach of Discipline.

An air cadet in England recently swooped down toward a country road while practicing diving and struck a carriage in which two convalescent officers were driving. Both officers were killed. When the cadet was put on trial the defense set up the plea that there had been no such culpable negligence as would justify a verdict of manslaughter, although the pilot had committed a breach of discipline in flying low over the road. The cadet was acquitted.

An alarm of fire was turned in at 1 o'clock Tuesday night when the residence of Willis Hoagland caught fire. It was only the prompt action of the fire department in getting the water turned on that the building was saved. A strong wind was blowing and in less than five minutes longer the fire would have gained such headway that it would have been impossible to have saved anything. Mr. Hoagland had left the house about an hour before and gone to look on at the Native dance. The fire was caused by the stovepipe coming out of the flue.
